

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A display unit comprises a display region constituted of twenty-four display segments each of which has a triangular display surface. The display region consists of a quadrangular central region and a quadrangular and annular peripheral region surrounding the entire central region. The central region has two quadrangular portions arranged one above the other. Each of two quadrangular portions consists of four display segments. The peripheral region is constituted of sixteen display segments.